

Chris Arestopoulos Riley So the next time the library wants a referendum for more money, residents will be so angry about this decision, they'll vote against it regardless of how they really feel. So Trinza wins by suffocating another public service. When is the next mayoral election? We need a new mayor and a change to how the library board is selected.

Elizabeth Pittner MacDougall I can tell you one thing, I WILL NOT vote for a mayor who does not support our library, and doesn't get involved with issues such as this.

Elizabeth Yourell-Cataudella I highly recommend you voice your opinions to the first ward alderman and the mayor. Also do a little bit of research into the library board members one of whom has a blog. He has some very nasty things to say about park ridge residents and other citizen boards. It's infuriating and disgusting at best.

Robin Fiala I don't live in PR but I would never step foot in that library again. I find it appalling. At the end of the day it's hurting the kids. If another library is to far , use the local Starbucks or McDonalds. I would gladly pay a couple bucks for a coffee to keep my business away from the library. There's enough of you against this, boycott the library, the mayor and anyone else involved in this. It's an election year. Use that and social media to your advantage.

Joshua Nichols That's the problem, Robin. The people who railroaded this change appear to want everyone to stop using the library so they can close it down. Boycotting the library doesn't hurt the people who voted for this change, it hurts the dedicated library staff first, and then ultimately all of us when the library's enemies are able to shut it down.

Elizabeth Yourell-Cataudella Actually when he started adding up what my tutor makes in an effort to embarrass me there were quite a few names that I wanted to publicly call him but I chose not too.

Amanda Collins Simkin Hi all--I have a reporter who is researching this situation for CBS Chicago. Is there anyone who would be comfortable speaking with her to provide details and commentary? If so, please send me a PM.
